

Terms and Conditions for Customers

McMinnville Locally Grown is a group of farmers working together to bring you local farm products. In many ways it is just like a physical farmer's market. Producers set their own prices and list their own products. Producers will strive to provide safe products delivered to McMinnville Locally Grown on time.

Compliance with all Health Department and Department of Agriculture guidelines and restrictions are the responsibility of the grower/producer. McMinnville Locally Grown and Farmer Brown's Hydroponic Gardens are not liable for products sold. Nor is Farmer Brown's Hydroponic Gardens liable for any injury or loss that occurs while on their property.

We realize that the quality of product and presentation will vary amongst our producers. We encourage you to give different growers/producers a try and get to know them and their farming methods by reading their information pages on the website. We allow farmers with many different farming methods to participate in McMinnville Locally Grown. If you feel that the food or agricultural products that you have purchased do not meet your standards you can refuse to complete the purchase and you may wish to try another farmer in the future.

The quantities of each item listed are estimates that are provided by the farmers. While they are generally accurate, conditions such as weather, pests, and disease can greatly change the available quantities, even in a day or two. Orders are filled in the order they are placed, so if the farm runs short, later orders will not get filled.

The same variety may be grown by multiple farms and are listed separately on this website. Like at a farmers market, you can order your produce from specific farms, but if that farm runs short and is not able to fill your order, we will NOT substitute the same item from a different farm. If you are not particular about which farm fills your order, order from the farm with the highest quantity listed.

The website is updated every Sunday morning with the availability for the week, and an email is sent out reminding people to place orders. Orders are accepted Sunday after the email has gone out until Wednesday morning at 8:00 a.m

McMinnville Locally Grown is designed to serve as a means for connecting farmers and buyers. A 5% virtual booth fee is charged for each sale. This fee helps cover the operating expenses of the market. There is currently a $10.00 annual membership fee. You are entitled to 2 trial orders before your membership is due.

Payment is expected at the time of pickup, unless special arrangements have been made. The farmers have already harvested your orders prior to the pickup time, so if you miss your pickup, you will still be responsible for paying for your order. We accept cash, checks made out to McMinnville Locally Grown or you can prepay through PayPal or by check.

I understand and agree to the above Terms and Conditions.
